Summary: A funny, stupid story poking fun at the idea of one version of the TMNT is better than any other when the core personalities are always the same. Spelling, grammer, and other mistakes are not really mistakes, I wrote it poorly because it's funnier.

Note from the author. This story is a joke. Laugh with me. Ha Ha ha. I don't really spell this way. It's funny. Get it? I personally think that the idea of someone writing a fanfic where the comic book TMNT meet the cartoon TMNT is incredibly stupid and Fanboyish. I also think that the notion of one version of the TMNT being more "pure" and thus better is equally stupid and Fanboyish when the main characters are pretty much the same in each version. If you are offended, too bad for you, because I'm a fanboy too and I laugh. Ha Ha Ha. HUGE thanks goes out to the Transformers World's Worst crew, even though they probably don't know it.
